The Issues

Vehicle accidents are the leading cause of occupational fatalities in the United States. According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, vehicle accidents account for almost one-third of deaths that occur on the job. Not only are these incidents costly in terms of medical and direct repair expenses, they also impact your bottom line by disrupting your operation. Additionally, they can damage your business reputation, affecting customer relationships and even your ability to hire new staff.

However, no matter how skilled and attentive the driver, accidents can still happen. Many variables are simply beyond the vehicle operator's control—the actions of other drivers, inadequate road and traffic signal designs, adverse weather conditions, etc. How do you prevent these accidents, and reduce their impact when they unfortunately do occur?
